How it works…

1 You choose between our tools (such as ASUS©) or we integrate your tools

2 We publish EZAssess in a development mode for you to test and learn the system

3 We work with you to make customizations that surface during the trial period

4 When a production-ready version is complete we publish the system live!

5 We also provide a training version so your users can get familiarized with the system using test data

6 Once the system is live, you have complete control and secure access to your data
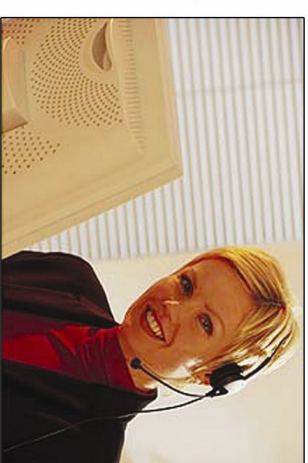

Live Updates

As the product develops, you will receive automatic updates as they become available! Since the entire development is web-based, all updates to the system will occur in real time so you don't have to worry about always having the latest version.
